Advanced 4.

1. The umpire should not call a foul, as it would not be to the attackers advantage if she did.
2. No. No goal.
3. Penalty Bully, where ball is, between goal-keeper + anyone the attacking captain chooses.
4. Free hit for defense, anywhere in the circle.
5. No. One attacker must stop the ball before anyone can shoot, unless a defender has touched it.
6. When you have rushed a shot + the goal-keeper has cleared, then try to get back before the next shot. Be careful shyns in the circle, especially L. Wing + L. Inner.

Hockey Questions.

Advanced 5.

1. What is a "through pass"?
2. May you kick your stick & so move the ball?
3. If a team is playing short on full-back, does the part of the off-side rule requiring three defenders between the attacker & the goal line still hold?
4. When may a team ask the umpire to reverse a decision?
5. If you see what you think is a foul by your opponents, what must you do?
6. If you were umpiring, & a full-back kicked the ball out toward an attacking forward, what would you do?

Answers

Advanced 5.

1. A long diagonal pass through between two defence players which can be picked up by a fast forward beyond them. Not much value unless backs are far up field, & level with each other.
2. No.
3. Yes. Because rule is in favour of defending side.
4. Only when their own team is benefiting unfairly by the decision.
(ex.) A forward knew she kicked the ball into the goal, but umpire gave a goal. She should explain this & a free hit should be given to defence.
5. Play on. Umpire may not call it as it is ~~may~~ be an advantage to the team fouled against, to let it go.
6. Hold the whistle & see if the forward could not shoot. Generally she would rather have a chance to shoot, than to have a penalty corner awarded.

Cuts wood.

Makes traps.

Splits wood into parts to use for shelter, fire, camp-site.

Kind

Should be light + balanced.

To remove a broken one handle.

Bury blade in the moist earth
+ build fire over butt, earth
prevents heat from spoiling blade.

In double-headed one, build fire on top of centre.

To tighten one head.

Soak overnight - wood swells + tightens.

Rules

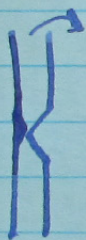

1. Keep one sharp and clean and dry.
2. Use one's own one always.
3. Keep one sheathed, or driven into a log - never leave on ground or near fire.
4. If unsheathed, carry one with hand right under one head.
5. In chopping - one follows grain of wood.

6. Use a buffer log, when splitting wood to protect feet & legs - and one. Never chop against stone or metal - watch for nails in boards & knots in logs.

To sharpen axe.

Sharpen on wet grindstone, right edge to keep it true, use circling movement towards user.

To fell tree.

Fell tree into open space. Be sure to swing axe under open conditions. Fell tree away from you, and stand to one side as it falls.

Chopping wood.

Rest wood on chopping block, or another piece of wood. Buffer log in front of your feet.

Bury axe in wood, making a diagonal cut each blow .

In chopping kindling, if axe doesn't split wood first blow, tap on chopping block till blade is through. Never hold wood & then chop near hand.

When chopping across grain, make the cut diagonal.

Knife

Select a knife, with one tough springy blade, accessories if wanted.

Sharpen

Rules

1. Keep blade clean, dry & sharp.
2. Keep sheathed, & driven into ground.
3. Open & close knife with blade away & fingers along blade back.
4. Don't whittle on knee, & towards body & fingers.

Fires.

Sec. II.

1. Cross-cross fire.

Purpose - To produce quickly a bed of coals for drying, boiling, roasting, & simmering.

Construction - Lay a small wig-wam fire about 6" high. At the base of this structure, place on opposite sides, two hard wood sticks about 1' long & 2"-3" thick. Upon these foundations build a log-cabin around the wig-wam, finally laying sticks cross-cross over the top. The wood will fall to a bed of coals between the two foundation sticks, which may then be used as a rest for the drying pan. In wet weather lay a small log-cabin foundation to raise the wigwam off the ground.
